

It was Christmas evening. Katie, Patricia and Jim were waiting for Christmas morning. Yesterday Jim saw mum and dad carrying presents for them. They couldn't wait for tomorrow. They decided to find those presents. Jim also saw mum and dad were carrying presents to the attic. At midnight they went to the attic and tried to find the presents. They knew that present for Katie was pink, Patricia's was yellow and Jim's was green. They looked under an old sofa, in the wardrobe, in old boxes, under the beds, but there was no luck. Then, they tried behind the wardrobe. Katie found a secret passage. They went into the passage and found another room. Room didn't look so old like the attic. There was another wardrobe behind the sofa. They thought that there maybe was another passage behind. They pushed wardrobe on the left. And look! There really was another passage with long hall. They ran into it. They had toys on their minds, CDs and Teddies. They thought that they were probably near their wishes. Patricia said: " Let's look in this big box. I guess they are here." They tried to open the box, but it was tied up very strongly. They had luck. Jim brought scissors with him. They opened the box, and of course there were three smaller boxes. Pink for Katie, yellow for Patricia and green for Jim. They opened the presents, and they found maths books in them. They screamed: „ Aaaagrhhh!!!!" They came back into their room, and mum and dad also came. Kids asked: "Maths books...?" Mum and dad just laughed: „ Ha, ha, ha!"

Merry Christmas to everyone!
